PUBLISHING

Underlying the growth of nearly all Heber business firms has been the support of the community newspaper, the Wasatch Wave. Someone once said that the formula for business success was "Early to bed, early to rise, work like the devil and advertise." The opportunity for merchants to advertise their goods or services came in the pages of the newspaper, and certainly helped in no small way to expand community business.

The newspaper was first published in 1889 in the north room of the Court House. William H. Buys, the owner, editor and manager of the paper, worked feverishly to bring the first issue into being. The hand-set, Cheltenham light-face type had arrived late from Salt Lake City and Mr. Buys burned a lot of midnight oil to get the type set and the issue ready for the March 23, 1889 publication date.

The biggest news in the four-page first issue, of course, was the birth of the paper, which Mr. Buys said was "but a tiny ripple on the great ocean of journalism." It may have seemed "tiny" then, but the newspaper has grown in size and in service until it is considered one of the state's best weekly newspapers today.

The front page of the first issue of "The Wasatch Wave" published March 23, 1889.

Assisting Mr. Buys in his publication efforts were George Barzee, Joseph A. Murdock, Ephraim McMillan, Dan McMillan and George A. Fisher who was the "printer's devil." Orilla Buys, the owner's eldest daughter, helped whenever possible. Charles Glanville also published the paper for a time.

In 1910 the Wave Publishing Company was sold to Charles N. Broadbent and his sons who owned the paper until 1939 when Frank Mountford purchased it. John Wallis had published it two years before this sale. The Mountford family still owns the paper, with James
